

What: SEDs Northeast Regional Conference

When: Saturday, April 4, 2009

Where: Massachusetts Institute of Technology

Why: Meet students from schools throughout the northeast! Listen to guest-speakers talk about the future of space propulsion and the astronaut process! Get involved with advanced student projects like tethered cube satellites or a multi-stage amateur rocket! And much more!

To register, please visit our website at <http://seds.mit.edu/conference/>. As new speakers are secured and other details finalized, they will be posted on the site, so check back often for up-to-date information about the conference.
